

Philosopher

A philosopher thinks deeply about the things that they have been told. They are Owls using their knowledge to think of new ideas.

Karl Marx, philosopher

Scientist

Scientists experiment and try things out. They want to find better ways to do things and improve things that already exist. They are curious cats, questioning the world around them. They are Chameleons, changing and adapting their ideas.

Mae Jemison, scientist

Engineer

Engineers are curious cats. They want to solve problems. An Engineer is a person who needs to be a Tortoise to test their ideas until they work.

An Engineer can invent, design, build and test.

Isambard Kingdom Brunel, engineer

Artist

Artists are Unicorns.
They create art or practice art. Artists show how artistic they are in the things that they do, say and make. Artists have to be Tortoises, practising skills to get better and better.

Vincent Van Gogh, artist

Designer

A Designer is someone who has needs to use their creative Unicorn to come up with new ideas that can be made.

Vivienne Westwood, Fashion Designer

Writer

A Writer is a spider, making links between different things. Writers use written words to tell people their ideas. Writers need to be Tortoises to get past mistakes. Often they are creative Unicorns.

Onjali Rauf, writer

Mathematician

Katherine Johnson, mathematician

Mathematicians are Owl learners.

They use what they know about Maths to solve problems.

Geographer

James Cook, explorer

A Geographer is a Scientist who knows about the world that we live in. They look at the natural environment and the people who live there. Geographers are curious cats, finding answers to questions about the world that we live in.

Historian

A Historian learns about the past. They are Owls who have lots of knowledge about what happened in the past and what life was like for different people.

Professor Kate Williams, historian

Musician

A Musician composes, leads or performs music. Musicians are Tortoises who spend a long time learning to play an instrument or read and write music. They are Unicorns, using their creativity to entertain others.

Stevie Wonder—Musician

Athlete

An Athlete is a person who plays and competes in sports that involve, strength, speed or endurance. Athletes are tortoises, often training for years to achieve their goals. Athletes practise their skills over and over again. Many athletes are bees, working with others to achieve their goals.

David weir—Athlete